Tories stab British munitions workers in the back

BETRAYED

WHEN THE GOVERNMENT privatised Britain's Royal Ordnance factories in April 1987, Defence Secretary George Younger assured MP's in the House of Commons that "privatisation would not mean the shedding of jobs".

Now, less than 20 months later two factories face the chop, Bishopton in Scotland and Patricroft, near Manchester while two others, Enfield and Waltham Abbey will be sold off for development.

At Bishopton alone 1200 workers will lose their jobs as the work they normally do will be transferred to plants in Kentucky, Brazil and Chile.

Royal Ordnance was bought by British Areospace for the give-away price of £190 million. Supplying munitions for the defence of the realm, always RO's primary purpose, now gives way to the pursuit of profit. British workers are put on the dole, British factories are closed and Britain's defence put in the hands of Americans, Brazilians and Chilians.

SPECIAL REPORT

NO LOYALTY

The man behind the betrayal of the British munitions industry is the Chief Procurement Officer, Peter Levene, who as his name suggests is a man who believes in a 'never mind the quality, feel the width' philosophy. He was head-hunted by the Government from a private defence industry company the United Scientific Group. He's a man who owes no loyalty to Britain or the British people, an unelected bureaucrat who at the stroke of a pen has destroyed the lives of 1,200 families in Bishopton.

Putting the responsibility of supplying Britain's Army, Navy and Airforce in the hands of foreigners is national suicide.

• Bishopton: 1200 jobs lost.

What happens if hostilities break out again in the Falklands and Brazil and America side with Argentina? Do you think they will still carry on supplying arms to us?

The whole episode shows this Tory Government in its true light. First lying to the British people as they have done time and time again, and secondly the revolting 'profit above all' mentality that permeates every Government ministry.

The National Front says that British munitions should be made in British factories by British workers. Nothing less can ensure the defence of our country.

• BETRAYED: Bishopton shop stewards chairman Jimmy Burns with some of the Bishopton workers whose jobs have gone to the United States, Brazil and Chile.

DESTINATION BRITAIN

THERE ARE 25,014 Vietnamese boat people living in camps in Hong Kong. The vast majority of these could be heading for Britain as the Government is facing pressure from all quarters for Britain to take the lead among Western nations by opening our doors to these immigrants.

SOFTEN

Government ministers have been advised that a 'bleeding hearts' campaign on the lines of the Ethiopian famine could soften up the British public to accept the boat people. While another line of persuasion used would be that with 45,000 coloured immigrants settling in Britain every year another 20,000 staggered over the eight years prior to Hong Kong's handover to China, could go relatively unnoticed.

The National Front will use every avenue open to it to stop these boat people arriving in Britain. They should go back to Vietnam. They are nothing to do with Britain and totally alien to the British way of life.

MINORITY

Unless coloured immigration is stopped and the immigrants returned to their countries of ethnic origin, the British will be a minority in their own country by the year 2068. That is why the National Front says "Stop Immigration, Start Repatriation Now".

EXPENSIVE WASTE!

A SECRET EEC document reveals that the amount of food destroyed by the community soared last year to 2.9 million tonnes at a cost to the taxpayer of £342 million.

C-of-E: No Democracy

THE CHURCH of England is set to launch a drive against racism by inviting up to two dozen unelected black Anglicans to sit in its parliament, the General Synod.

No Speak English!

SLOUGH SCHOOLS have the highest number of pupils with language difficulties in the county of Berkshire according to the council's multi-cultural education committee.

Church Gives £4,000 to Broadwater Farm 'Defence' Fund!

MORE AGONY FOR ELIZABETH BLAKELOCK

PAUL NASH, Organiser of Haringey National Front has written to every Church of England vicar in Tottenham to canvas their views on the recent gift of £4,000 by the World Council of Churches to the Broadwater Farm Rioters.

It was on Broadwater Farm in 1985 the PC Keith Blakelock was hacked to death by a machete-wielding Black mob as he tried to quell disturbances.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, has backed the grant "to provide legal defence to the Tottenham youth who have difficulties defending themselves against racial prejudice in the courts".

Such backing by the Church is a disgrace, and for poor Elizabeth Blakelock it has been the final straw. She is now emigrating to Australia with her three sons, bitterly upset by the grant in particular, and the growing band of apologists for the rioters in general.

A National Front government would have hanged the murderers of Keith Blakelock, and repatriated any immigrant known to have taken part in the riot. Broadwater Farm would have been bulldozed down the very next day, and streets of terraced houses with gardens built in its place to house the British families that had lost their homes.

SICK: These are the men who are financing Black rioters in Britain in the name of anti-racism.

Repatriation & Import Controls Would End Poverty in Britain

ONE-FIFTH of children in Britain are living on or below the "poverty line", according to a survey by the Child Poverty Action Group.

The figures drawn from government statistics show 2,470,000 children living in families on less than half average income in 1985 - the latest figures available. Children at greatest risk were those in families of the unemployed.

Such figures are a disgrace. The National Front would cut unemployment 'at a stroke' by repatriating six million coloured immigrants and get Britain back to work by ensuring that all manufactured goods bought in Britain were made in Britain, in British factories by British workers.

Multi-Faith Service Prompts Walk-Out

TEACHERS AT Britain's most expensive public school walked out of a cathedral service attended by 1,200 pupils in protest at a mixed faith ceremony.

Six masters from £7,500-a-year Millfield School in Street, Somerset, were angry that Jewish, Moslem, Hindu and Buddhist readings were delivered at a predominantly Christian service.

Music master Peter Bond led the walk out complaining that the other religions were in conflict with Christianity. Headmaster, Brian Gaskill, said that the multi-faith service had been introduced because of the large numbers of foreign students at Millfield - 18% of the 1,240 pupils now come from abroad.

Blacks over represented in prison

BLACKS CONSTANTLY complain that they are under-represented in proportion to their numbers in many walks of life. But, according to a report published on October 2nd by the National Association of Probation Officers, there is one British institution from which their colour certainly doesn't seem to exclude them - jail.

Whilst Blacks make up around 5% of the general British population, they make up, the report reveals, 14% of Britain's 56,000 prisoners. Thus Negroes are three times as likely to end up behind bars than White Britons. It's good to find something they're good at!

SCOLDED! FOR NOT HONOURING MANDELA!

A PRIMARY school teacher was publicly humiliated in front of her pupils for refusing to join in an assembly celebrating the birthday of convicted South African Communist terrorist Nelson Mandela, it was revealed in mid-October.

Mrs Diana Stuart, a teacher at Highbury Quadrant School, in London's Red Republic of Islington, was given "a severe dressing-down" in front of her class for this 'grave thought-crime'. She has formally complained to the Inner London Education Authority, itself a hotbed of Marxist Mandela-maniacs.

Catholic Church Promotes Gay Video

THE ROMAN Catholic Church has launched an explicit video for schoolchilden which contains homosexual scenes.

The 25 minute fictional film shows the blossoming love between two queers one of whom dies of AIDS at 21.

Defending the film its executive producer Nicholas Coote said "To think that we can shield young people by keeping them in a state of protection and ignorance is a terrible illusion".

The FLAG agrees! Children shouldn't be kept in ignorance. They should be taught that homosexuality is against the family, against civilised society and a legacy of liberal decadence. The church should also be telling them that AIDS is nature's, or God's way of putting an end to their sick existence.

SOOTY'S MADE IN SWEAT SHOPS

GLOVE-PUPPET replicas of Sooty, television favourite of two generations of British children, are now being imported from the Far East.

They are marketed in Britain by Patsy B Marketing and World Of Sooty whose managing director Patricia Redmonds claimed that there aren't the skilled machinists in Britain to make them.

That's rubbish, Mrs Redmonds is buying from sweat shops in the Taiwan so that her company can make bigger profits, not caring that she is putting British machinists on the dole.

BUY BRITISH!

MORE FOREIGN rubbish is pouring into Britain. This time its a toy bear copied from the popular battery-operated Teddy Ruxpin bears made by Mattel.

The imitations are dangerous, with rough edges that can cause cuts, and a faulty jaw mechanism that could trap a child's finger.

When you're shopping for presents this Christmas make sure you buy toys that are MADE IN BRITAIN!

NOT A WORD IN ENGLISH

FIREMEN AT Hatfield were confused when Herts County Council pinned a sign to their front door.

The sign was in four languages but none of them English. It had Urdu, it had Punjabi, it had Bengali and it had Gujarati . . . but not an English word to be seen,

Herts County Council have now revealed that the poster was fire safety instructions issued by the Home Office.

WATCH WHAT YOU SAY!

CIVIL SERVANTS face the sack if they make racist remarks.

The new ruling was announced by Home Secretary Douglas Hurd in a speech where he said that the Government must take the lead in improving Race Relations.

BLACK COUNCIL WORKERS WANTED

LIVERPOOL COUNCIL is to spend £6 million over the next three years in an attempt to recruit and train 630 new Black workers.

The council says that 'positive action' is needed to boost the number of black council workers to 10% of the workforce.

Liverpool's ethnic community makes up 9% of the city's population.

COUNCIL AIDS ETHNIC HOUSING COVER-UP

SLOUGH COUNCIL used to publish the names of successful applicants for council housing in the colums of the Slough Observer.

The idea was to demonstrate how fair their housing points scheme was. The practice has now been dropped because of the increase in 'foreign names' amongst the successful applicants.

Now the council want to put AIDS sufferers to the top of the list. This is because like the 'foreign' applicants AIDS victims suffer prejudice and harassment, according to the housing officer, Brian Hurrell, and are priority cases.

The National Front says "British council houses for British families only".

NF AT YOUNG SOCIALIST MEETING!

WHEN THIRTY local people turned up to Rochdale Town Hall for a public meeting called to combat the growth of the National Front in the Lancashire town, the Rochdale Young Socialist who organised the meeting were very happy.

It was only when the Rochdale National Front banner was unfurled and held aloft that they realised that more than half of those in attendance were from the local NF.

The Young Socialists tried to get the police to remove the NF supporters but when they refused, saying it was a public meeting, the organisers decided to call the whole thing off!

DAY OF ACTION IN ORPINGTON

NATIONAL FRONT members from Croydon, Bromley and Lewisham joined with activists from Newham and Haringey for a day of action in the Kent town of Orpington.

Kent Regional Organiser, Geoff Burnett organised a street meeting, paper sales and leaflet session followed by a Union Jack bedecked lorry broadcasting the NF message.

Leeds Top Branch Efficiency League

LEEDS NATIONAL FRONT, for so long the pride of Yorkshire, are now the pride of Britain. They are the first winners of the Branch Efficiency League, a monthly competition between National Front branches throughout the country to see who is the most efficient branch.

September, the month that saw for the first time this year Leeds go top of The FLAG Sales League also saw them amass an amazing 211pts for the month.

The top ten NF branches and the points they scored were as follows:

SEPTEMBER'S LEAGUE TABLE

FIBBERS of the month are Croydon who finished 11th with 62pts. They tried to claim a paper sale at Brick Lane. Newham Branch who sell at the Lane every Sunday objected. They said that Croydon branch turned up at midday and went straight to the pub.. For telling fibs Croydon Branch had 10pts deducted from their final total.

ALL'S WELL WITH DUDLEY NATIONAL FRONT

"ONE OF the best meetings I have been to" was the verdict of John Hill, the NF National Activities Organiser, after attending the Annual General Meeting of Dudley and Brierley Hill National Front

Every seat was occupied as the Committee of Andy Nolan (organiser), John Lord (chairman), Ian Jones (treasurer) and Glen Nicklin (secretary) were elected for a second term of office.

The meeting discussed the NF campaign against a Sikh temple to be built near the Russell Hall Estate and the audience contained a good sprinkling of local residents recruited by the campaign.

The AGM voted that the collection be given to Organiser Andy Nolan, who has just got married and whose wife is expecting their first child, in recognition of his tireless efforts on behalf of the National Front during the year. Four new members were signed up at the meeting.

Residents Take Paper to Task

THE RUSSELL Hall Estate residents committee have written to the West Midlands paper The Express and Star condemning an article which claimed that their association had not welcomed the support of the National Front.

A spokesman from the association telephoned John Hill to say that they have asked the paper to print a retraction and make it clear to their readers that the National Front and residents association were working together to stop the temple being built.

• John Hill: Contacted by Russell Hall Residents

STOP PRESS: Dudley and Brierley Hill NF are organising a 'camp-in' on the site where the temple is to be built.

TORIES OUSTED FROM BRISTOL NF

THIRTY FIVE members of Bristol National Front turned up to the September branch meeting and gave their overwhelming backing to local chairman, John Daniels, against efforts by Tory Party infiltrators to forge links with the Monday Club.

John told those present that the recent efforts of a tiny clique to change the role of the NF in Bristol was against the best interests of the party.

Branch members were very happy with the outcome of the meeting and local activists forecast the biggest ever turn-out from Bristol NF for the Annual Remembrance Day Parade to the Cenotaph.

All Systems Go in Epping

THE NATIONAL Front by-election campaign in Epping is now in full swing.

NF candidate Tina Wingfield reports a good response to the campaign fund while election agent Paul Nash is very happy with the reaction from the electors. He told The FLAG

"The paper sales in Loughton have been good and the response to our canvassing promising".

Tory Councillors join NF Demo!

BRIGHTON TORY councillors joined with NF members from Brighton and Worthing in demonstrating outside the Pavilion Theatre in the town where a speaker from Sinn Fein addressed members of the local Labour Party.

Based around the 'Drugs Kill' message the NF has faced hysterical criticism from local Labour Councillors.

E.E.C. BEEFS-UP PRICES

STEAK AND roast beef will go up by 15% because of new EEC farm proposals.

Normally price increases on beef amount to less than 10p on an average 3 lb roasting joint but under the new policy the difference could be £1.11 on the same joint.

The NF believes the Common Market is an expensive con-trick. We say "Get Britain out of the EEC now!"

BELGIUM BETTER PLACED TO SUPPLY LONDON

DIRECTOR GENERAL of the Confederation of British industry has admitted that 1992 spells disaster for British industry.

He warned that by 1992 "suppliers in Bruges in Belgium will be better placed than those in Bradford to supply stores in south London"

The Government says '1992 Britain's open for business". By 1994 they will be saying "Britain's in the hands of the Receiver".

FRENCH BOSSES SACK BRITISH BRICKIES

SIXTY BRITISH brickies have lost their jobs building a £50 million holiday complex at Thetford in Norfolk.

They have been replaced by 60 French brickies who have been brought over by the consortium building the 650-chalet complex, Kier-Bouygues.

Sacked brickie, Ken Galloway of Birkenhead said "The job was on British soil. British brickies should work on it".

British Cats Skinned For German Fur Trade

CAT STEALING is on the increase in Britain to meet the demands for the overseas fur trade.

More than 10,000 domestic cat pelts regularly come under the hammer at German Fur Auctions and the charity National Petwatch believe that cats from Britain are being stolen and skinned to meet that foreign market.

800 paws have recently been discovered on a Manchester rubbish tip while the number of missing cats in Hampshire is four times the national average.

• POLICE: Facing a violent society.

The Police's 'softly, softly' approach flops as . .

VIOLENCE SOARS!

MR PETER Turner , a former research chief at The Treasury, has claimed that the police have a 'softly softly' approach to crime which has proved to be a disaster. He singles out Notting Hill where £200.000 a year is spent on community policing "with no observable effect on crime rates".

In fact the reverse is true, in the first two months of this year muggings in Nottting Hill rose by 120%, robberies by 77% and assaults by 83%. Overall violent crime across the UK is soaring out of control and yet the Government ministers are patting themselves on the back.

On 14th September Mr Douglas Hurd, the Home Secretary, said that the latest crime figures were "worth two cheers". The figures recorded a 0.6% fall but crimes of violence rose by 17%. In total there were nearly four million crimes last year.

The government's response to this has been the Neighbourhood Watch Schemes which are specifically designed to encourage people to keep an eye on each other's houses, cars and other property. But the moment anyone suggests taking schemes one step further and tackling violent crime the police suddenly change their attitude and scream "Vigilantes! Lynch Law?"

In our cities violent crime has become an everyday part of life, but now this is spreading to rural areas and the police are totally failing to tackle the problem. In some areas ordinary people have become so frustrated that they have taken the law into their own hands.

A man who carried out a sex attack on a four year old boy was stabbed to death by relatives of the victim in North London. In Essex a woman shot two people whom she believed had sexually abused her daughter.

Such outbursts are bound to increase until crimes of violence are given the top priority and local people are involved in preventing muggings, rapes, and other crimes of violence.

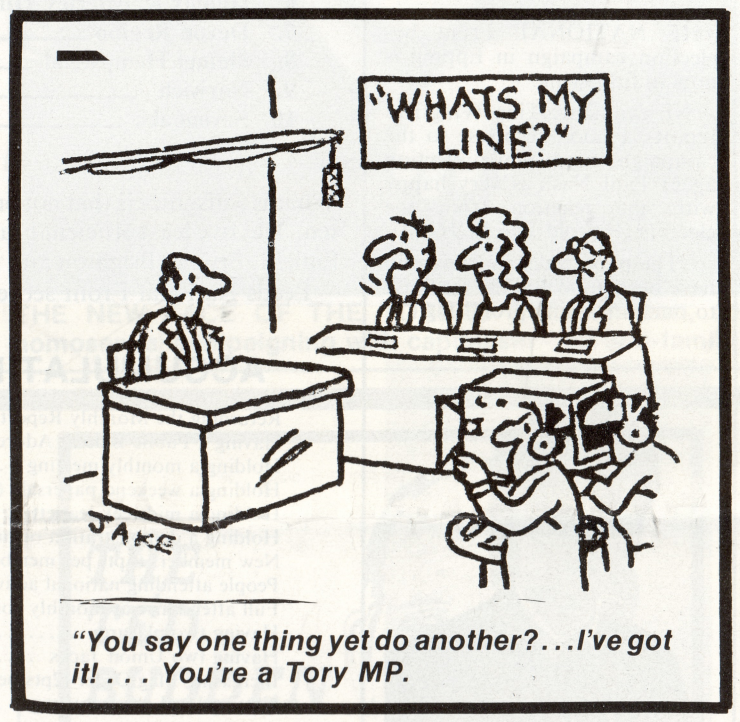
The Tories claim to be the party of law and order, yet since they came to power just nine years ago, crimes of violence have more than doubled. The Labour Party wants to make the police subject to their control - only arresting white people.

The National Front says our old folk, our women and our children should be allowed to live in peace without fear. All our people should be involved in stopping this epidemic of violence.

MANDELA SCHEME FROM LABOUR LOONY!

MANCHESTER CITY council leader, Graham Stringer, wants British taxpayers to foot the bill for looking after ANC terrorist Nelson Mandela.

This Labour loony has written to Margaret Thatcher asking her to invite Mandela to Britain to receive medical treatment.



"You say one thing yet do another?. . .I've got it! . . . You're a Tory MP.

Steve Brady calls on Tory Patriots to join the National Front

HOPE SPRINGS eternal in the human breast. So it would seem from the fact that, year after year, the majority of delegates at the Conservative Party Conference again and again call on their Party leadership to heed the wishes of the great majority of their own members, as well as the British public, and bring back hanging.

Despite the fact that, year after year, the Tory Party leadership just as predictably totally ignore the will of their members and, again and again, most of the unrepresentative self-selected clique which is the Conservative Parliamentary Party votes not to bring back the rope when it comes up in the Commons.

This year was no exception. On October 12th in Brighton Tory delegate after Tory delegate rose to express common-sense views on crime and punishment, views overwhelmingly popular with the British people and views the Tory leadership has no intention of listening to, now or ever.

For example, Mr. Phil Gallie from North Cunninghame pointed out that in the 20 years since the abolition of the death penalty, murders in Britain have risen from 140 to over 700 a year. As he rightly said "Since 1979 the Government has failed to stem the rate of crime and violence, yet we consider ourselves to be the party of law and order".

Before the Chairman could stop him, Lionel Stanbrook, son of the Orpington M.P., put hanging to a vote, winning an overwhelming show of hands for the rope from delegates. "Why", he asked, "does the Parliamentary Party continue to deny the majority position of Party members of this issue?" Then he answered his own question, hitting the nail on the head - "This Conference is a stage-managed rally".

He is quite right. The Tory leadership is no more interested in what its membership thinks than it is in what the British people think. So long as it can shut them up and herd them onto the hustings and into the polling booth by tossing them a few scraps. A Thatcher moan about Immigrants "swamping" Britain here. A rattle of the "Iron Lady's" sabre at "European integrationists" there. If pushed, a theatrical bit of gunboat diplomacy in the South Atlantic. This from a Party leadership which brought most of the Immigrants in in the first place. Which signed the Treaty of Rome and brought Britain into the Common Market itself. Which ignored the Falklands for years so the Argentinians deduced they didn't care when happened to them, and which still does ignore Ulster, refusing even to ban Sinn Fein let alone get tough with the IRA lest "our American allies" be offended.

Tory delegate Stanbrook was also right to point out that the Tory leadership blocked a Conference debate on Ulster, lest pro-British sentiments offensive in Boston and Chicago be heard, no doubt.

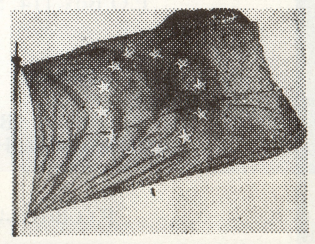
Yet still the sheep-like Tory faithful flock to cheer "Maggie" at Conference, satisfied with a few bleatings against the criminal wolves who flood into the acres of our land. Wolves who would fly the rope, but laugh at the electronic dog-tags which were the only new law-and-order policy Home Secretary Douglas Hurd could offer the conference.

So the body count mounts, the murders and the muggings and the rapes and the robberies grow daily more frequent. So long as the merchant bankers and the Americans and the multinationals who, not the Party membership, really run the Tory Party are happy, who in the Tory leadership really cares? They know that those who pay the Tory piper call the Tory tune, and that tune is variations on a liberal consensus theme arranged for cash register and filofax.

-Home Secretary Hurd himself admitted that many Tories - and in fact many Britons - take the attitude that "They won't bring back hanging, therefore we can't do anything about crime". If these patriotic, right-minded people refuse to do anything about "they" - the Tory leadership. They can't get rid of them: the Tory leadership is not elected by the Party members and the Tory Party can't therefore be taken over by patriots however many join it.

What they can do is stop wasting time working for the re-election of people with whom they have little politically in common. And start working for the election of people and a party which does listen to them and does share their beliefs, a party which, for example, for 21 years has demanded the restoration of capital punishment, a party whose Conference isn't a stage-managed farce. In short, if the Tory patriots want action, not words, on law-and-order, Ulster, Immigration or whatever, they shgould get out of the Tory party and Join the National Front!

Euro Flag to Replace Union Jack



THE EEC has issued a ruling asking Britain's local councils to remove the Union Jack from their town halls and replace it with the Euroflag - a circle of 12 gold stars on a blue background

WELL DONE SOUTH WALES

CONGRATULATIONS TO the residents of Newport, South Wales who have blocked a council attempt to name one of their streets after jailed ANC terrorist Nelson Mandela.

12 residents went to court with an action brought under a little-used section of the Public Health Act of 1925 where "anyone aggrieved by a council's name-change plans can appeal within 21 days.

For the residents, Andrew Taylor told Newport magistrates that local people found it grossly offensive that their homes were to be named after a criminal and a terrorist.

The street will now be called North Street Mews.

ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE

AFTER A long campaign the Guards Regiments finally succumbed to pressure and allowed in a few token blacks.

The Grenadier guards took on two "ethnic guardsmen", and now one of them, Winston Lindsay, turns out to have failed to declare a 'serious criminal offence' committed prior to his admission.

However this is unlikely to cause any problems because Grenadier Lindsay is, at present, Absent Without Leave.

GETTING IN ON THE ACT

EDGAR BRONFMAN, president of the World Jewish Congress has announced that the East German Government has agreed to pay £57 million in compensation for Jewish victims of the Nazis.

Isn't it about time Britain got in on the act and got some compensation for the British victims of Jewish terrorism in Palestine in 1946.

LABOUR STANDS FIRM BEHIND QUEERS

THE LABOUR Party conference gave a massive boost to queers and lesbians.

Four million Labour Party members backed a motion to bring homosexuals more into the British way of life. Conference also backed a move to scrap 'Clause 28' which bans councils from promoting homosexuality.

Lesbian Sarah Roelofs, who likes her women big-busted, big-bottomed and dark, told delegates that the Labour Party must stand behind homosexuals.

The Right of Asians to remain silent!

BRITISH TAXPAYERS will have to foot a £10,000 bill for two abortive trials after one of the jurors had sat for eight hours without understanding a word of the proceedings.

An Asian turned up for jury service at the Old Bailey and said nothing when he was asked if he understood English. That jury was discharged after one of its number fell ill. The same juror was selected to hear the case again and sat for four hours before it came to light that he had no idea what the case was about or why he was there.

LABOUR DOWN THE DRAIN

THE NUMBER of people joining the Labour Party as individuals has continued to plummet, leaving the party with serious financial problems and a crisis of morale.

For the first time for many years there has even been talk of a breakaway movement. In a desperate attempt to boost their membership they have even dropped their annual subscription.

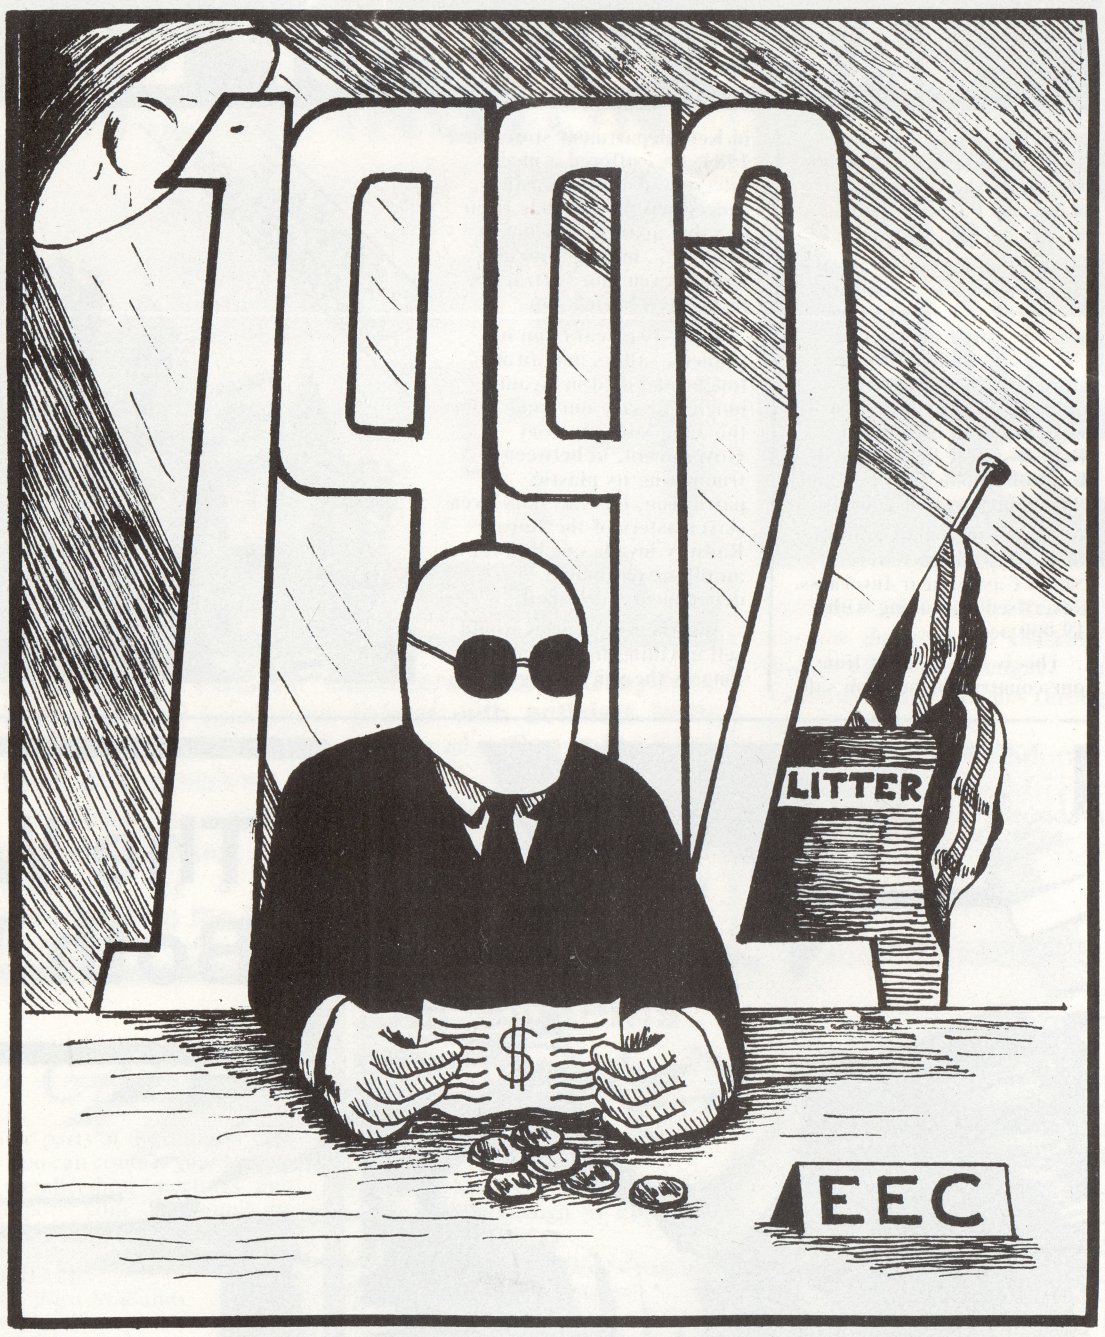
Illegal Immigrants Come Flying In

ON 16th October Douglas Hurd, the Home Secretary, announced that the Government is to sue airlines in an attempt to recover £3.5 million in fines which were incurred by allowing passengers with bogus entry papers to come into the country.

Now the fine is £1,000 per person which means that these airlines have brought in 3,500 illegal immigrants. In fact adding in the airlines that have paid fines the total comes to 6,600 - and this is just the number of people caught with bogus papers. What proportion get caught; One in ten, one in twenty?

This is clear proof that literally thousands upon thousands of illegal immigrants are coming into the country every single year. The government is very keen to run campaigns against social security cheats but there hasn't been a mention of a campaign against illegal immigration - possibly because there isn't one.



"WHAT PRICE BRITISH SOVEREIGNTY"

THATCHER: THE GREAT PRETENDER CONS THE BRITISH PEOPLE OVER EUROPE

ON 20th September Mrs Thatcher made a speech to the College of Europe. She said:

"To try to suppress nationhood and concentrate power at the centre of a European conglomerate would be highly damaging and would jeopardize the objectives we seek to achieve. Europe would be stronger precisely because it has France as France, Spain as Spain, Britain as Britain, each with its own customs, traditions and identity. It would be folly to try to fit them into some sort of Identikit European personality".

We couldn't put it better ourselves but the big difference is that we believe it and would act on it while Thatcher says this and does exactly the opposite.

She said: "To try to suppress nationhood and concentrate power at the centre of a European conglomerate would be highly damaging . . . "

The Tories have always been in favour of transferring national sovereignty to a European Parliament. It was a Conservative government that took us into Europe and signed the Treaty of Rome which involves the wholesale loss of sovereignty. The Conservatives have always gone along with European laws which over-rule British laws, Conservative Euro MP's usually voting in favour of such Euro-laws. An example of this has turned up this year with the European Court of Justice ruling that Britain must impose VAT on items such as spectacles, while the rate of duty on wine and beers has long been determined by Brussels.

She said "Europe would be stronger precisely because it has France as France, Spain as Spain and Britain as Britain . . . "

Thatcher is at the forefront of the campaign to create one single market in Europe in 1992 - this means free movement of goods and workers. It means Spaniards, Italians, etc. can pour into Britain. It means that even local councils have to invite German, Belgian and French firms to tender for local work . . . bringing their workers with them.

She said, "each with its own customs, traditions and identity . . . "

Mrs Thatcher has decided that we are to be allowed to keep our pint and our mile for now . . . however we are to immediately lose our pounds and ounces. Our passports are now to be European identity cards. Our traditional foods and drinks are under threat from European harmonisation.

She said "It would be folly to try to fit them into some sort of Identikit European personality".

Mrs Thatcher's real vision of Europe is a single market with huge companies dominating the states. We would buy our clothes from France, our industrial goods from Germany, our electrical equipment from Italy. With factories concentrated in central Europe, offshore Britain would be sustained by hand-outs from our rich neighbours.

In 1979 Mrs Thatcher was worried by the growth of the National Front and so she made her famous speech when she declared that she 'understood the fears of British people being swamped by immigrants'. After the election she encouraged more immigration not only from India, Pakistan and the West Indies but from places like Hong Kong and Vietnam.

We said she was a liar when she implied she was going to halt immigration. We say she is a liar now. Her vision of Europe is one of a single state dominated by huge multi-national companies where the ordinary working person is simply treated as one figure in a giant economic calculation. Her waving of the Union Jack is as sick as will be the consequences of her policies.

Prince Charles Echoes National Front

THE PRINCE OF Wales's withering denunciation of much of modern urban architecture, delivered in his B.B.C. Omnibus programme "A Vision of Britain" broadcast on Friday October 28th, was particularly welcome to the National Front because it echoes what we have been saying for the last twenty years.

In our October 1974 General Election Manifesto, penned ten years before His Royal Highness first spoke out at the Royal Institute of British Architects 150th anniversary dinner, the NF said:

> "We intend to fight against the growing trend toward the disfigurement of our cities. Cities once used to have their own distinctive characters, with their famous individual landmarks. Now you can scarely tell one from the other. The old landmarks are hidden or over shadowed by massive office blocks and skyscrapers.
> Few people wanted this but it has happened. Most town and city councils have totally failed to use their authority to stop it . . .
> Our ideal is one of beautiful cities on the Edinburgh model, cities of which the local populace can be proud. We will not have such cities as long as money and utility rule at the City Hall. A changed sense of values is the first prerequisite for environmental improvement."
> For a New Britain:
> The Manifesto of the National Front.
> September 1974, p.22.

Again, in our Manifesto for the May 1979 General Election, we said:

> "British urban areas, particularly the larger cities, are monuments to a hideously materialistic age, dominated by the drive for profit and callous of taste, beauty and human happiness. We call for a complete rethink and change of heart on the part of the planning authorities as to what sort of towns and cities we want.
> It must involve a greater preparedness to conserve, and where necessary renovate old property , and less of an obsession with building new. It must contain less of the present infatuation with novelty and experimentation and more preparedness to draw inspiration from traditional sources of design.
> We call for a more just and democratic machinery for the making of planning decisions, one which would directly involve the local inhabitants affected".
> It's Our Country - Let's Win it Back!
> The Manifesto of the National Front
> April 1979, p 52-53.

Prince Charles has now echoed these long-standing NF policies and perspectives to the letter. In doing so, His Royal Highness has clearly reflected the views of the great bulk of the British public.

It is a pity he does not do the same when discussing the multi-racial society, a monstrosity of modern social architecture foisted, like the "jostling scrum of skyscrapers", upon our cities with equally little regard for the wishes of the people.

Nevertheless, on this issue the Prince has spoken out for the people of Britain, and we warmly welcome these timely words from the Heir to the Throne. They reflect and echo exactly the long-standing National Front position, and as such we fully support and endorse the views of the Prince of Wales.

Holding Harvey's Mantle

• Tory MP Michael Brown

TORY HYPOCRISY has reached a new high!

Michael Brown, 37 year-old MP for Briggs and Cleethorpes, claims to have taken on the mantle of the disgraced Harvey Proctor in leading the anti-immigration lobby within the Tory Party.

But all is not as it seems. The only thing that Mr Brown appears to have in common with poor old Harvey is his interest in young men; for the Tory MP lives with Derek Laud, a young man who according to a Sunday newspaper, serves lunch to the Rt. Hon. Member in a frilly apron.

For the record, Derek Laud is a coloured immigrant!

JAPS BUY UP BRITAIN

ONE OF Japan's leading department stores had a new line on its shelves in late October - Parts of Britain!

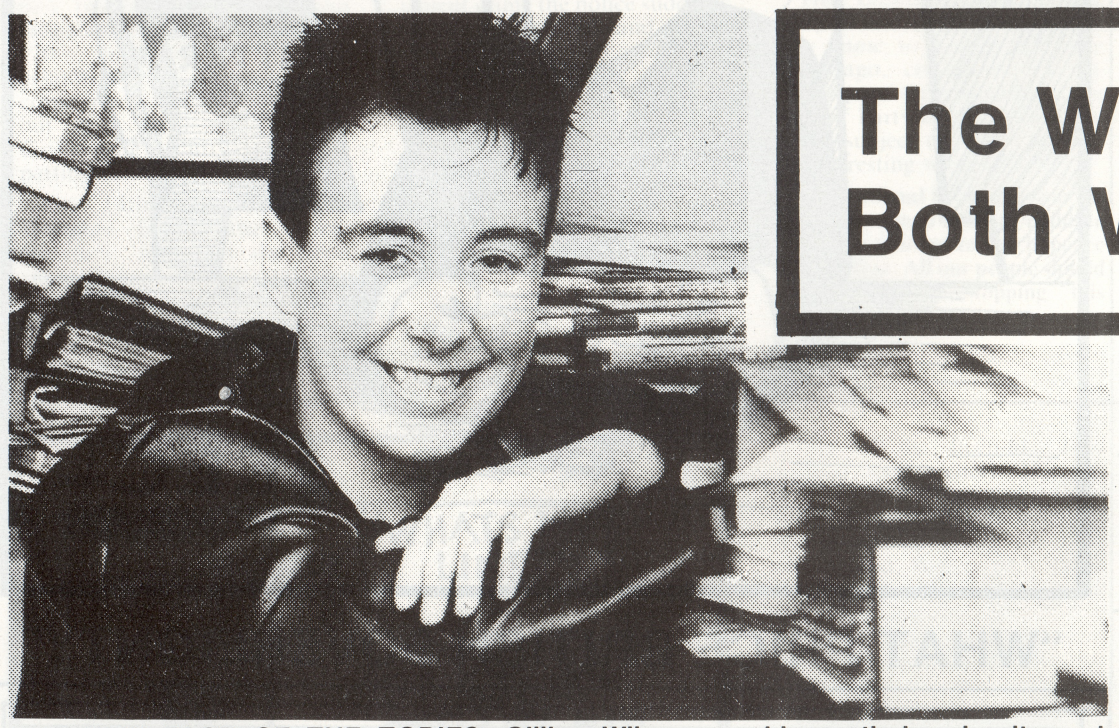
Over 30 British country estates and mansions, many rich in our nation's cultural, historical and architectural heritage, were on offer at Tokyo's Keio department store. Prices averaged £1 million. Wealthy Japanese were urged to invest in a British stately home, noted for both "noble history" and "proximity to golf courses".

Among the chunks on offer to the Jap shopper were Skibo Castle, near Inverness, advertised as coming with 19,000 acres.

This is not the first time our country has been on sale in Keio department store. In 1984, they offered a nice selection of British castles. Since then the Yen has risen in value against Sterling by over 40%, making bits of Britain even more attractive to the well-heeled Jap.

Forty-five years ago our soldiers, sailors and airmen fought and died in steaming jungles to save our land from the Jap. Now our Tory Government, in between trumpeting its plastic patriotism, lets the slant-eyed slavemasters of the Burma Railway invade our line via an offensive along a department store shelf.

But then the Tories would sell anything to anyone - so long as the price is right.



THE NEW FACE OF THE TORIES: Gillian Wilson, combines ethnic minority and homosexual campaigning with capitalism - All anti-family and anti-British.

The Worst of Both Worlds

"THE LEFT assume that if you are a student, a vegetarian, gay, a woman or Black then Socialism is for you. I want to show that Conservatives are as capable of integrating minority interests as anyone else". - Gillian Wilson, President of Cambridge University Students' Union, member of National Union of Students national committee, and active Conservative Party member. She also campaigns against "Clause 28", which bans local authorities from promoting homosexuality . . .

SAY NO MORE

THERE WAS a demonstration recently outside a pub whose licensee had exercised his right to refuse to serve a potential customer on the grounds of undesirability.

Right, did I say? Well, obviously this Southampton publican was grievously in error in supposing that he had such a right for, in this instance, the customer was Black, and in such circumstances an Englishman's rights are automatically abrogated.

Among the milling rabble there were the usual gaggle of white trash commies, shifty-eyed rag-headed wogs, gibbering blacks and, of course, the obligatory simpering clergyman.

The commie trash see the aliens as prime subversive material for the coming revolution. The Blacks and the ragheads were there simply for the sheer pleasure of persecuting Whitie and showing him who's boss - with the full support of the law, of course.

And the clergyman? What was his motive? What kind of perverse kick did he get out of harrying a fellow-countryman who was merely trying to run a decent establishment.

Whatever became of the hearty cricketing clergymen of days gone by; broad-shouldered, broad-batted, strong in simple faith and honest patriotism? When were they supplanted by the twittering mincers who infest the Church today?

And for that matter, what strange aberration of faith has led the Church of England to attempt the destruction of the nation it claims to represent, by embracing the ultimate obscenity that is multi-racialism?

I suppose one might credit Church leaders with a kind of cynical logic and presume that since the White flock have deserted the Church, the Church seeks to make up the deficit by recruiting simple-minded Black sheep. But that is not the reason. The Christian ethic is rooted in the concept of the nobility of self-sacrifice and it is this very concept that can be so easily transformed into the perversion we call ethno-masochism. This perversion now pervades the entire fabric of the Church.

But of course multi-racialism is not the only perversion that is embraced by our established Church. While the Roman Catholic Church does at least have the courage to denounce the practice of homosexuality as sinful, the Church of England seems to have a somewhat indulgent attitude towards a spot of buggery in the vestry.

When a clergyman was jailed at Gloucester Crown Court for indecently assaulting a 10 year old boy, the Bishop of Gloucester promised the court that he would do everything possible to persuade the man to retire from the ministry.

Persuade? Yegods!

At about the same time, two clergymen and three Church officials were convicted of running a vice ring involving the debauching of young boys.

The surnames of three of the dirty buggers were given as Eager, Fullalove and Bent.

And that, I think, is a fair description of the Church of England.

GORBACHEV'S REVENGE

FOR MANY years the Soviet Union stubbornly resisted demands that she should permit mass Jewish emigration. Just why they should have done so has always seemed an impenetrable mystery, especially to those British nationalists who have spent a considerable portion of their lives urging, nay pleading with, nay beseeching Jews to emigrate, totally without success. The determination of the Soviet Government to hang on to its Jewish citizens has been regarded by such people as evidence of the Russian tendency to manic depression with masochistic complications.

In recent times the Soviet Union has been subjected to intense pressure from that mysterious organisation so beloved of media hacks, "the international community". Russian embassies around the world have been picketed by Jewish zealots singing that grand old refrain "Let my people go", all lovingly orchestrated by the US State Department which saw it as a most effective stick with which to belabour the Russians.

Well, now the "international community" has triumphed. The Russians are letting the Jews go in their thousands.

Trouble is that very few of those thousands actually alight in the promised land of Israel - only 10% in fact. The rest have not the least intention of escaping conscription into the Russian Army merely to be conscripted into the Israeli Army, nor to swop the rigours of Communist Russia for the rigours of beleaguered Nazi Israel.

They have not the least desire to pioneer the promised land, much preferring, in the time-honoured Jewish tradition, to jet off to a land that has been well and truly pioneered by someone else - namely the good old US of A.

No doubt Gorbachev, being undoubtedly a pretty smart cookie, knew this would happen. Having been forced into a ruinous arms race with America that has brought the Russian economy to the verge of chaos, perhaps he sees the export of thousands of economic subversives as a means of doing America a bit of no good in return.

You may recall a Hollywood epic of some years ago entitled 'Exodus'. It was all about the brave and clean-cut Jewish pioneers who fought so gallantly against the beastly British and the evil Arabs to win the promised land. The film was accompanied by some exceedingly schmaltzy music (with heavenly choir) entitled 'This land is mine'.

Surely, even in Dumboland, there cannot now be an American so dim that he doesn't realise precisely which land they meant.

VE HAF WAYS

I SEE that Mrs Edwina Currie, Junior Health Gauleiter and frenzied self-publicist, has made yet another excursion into the outer reaches of loonyland.

It appears that she is exceedingly peeved about those criminally-inclined people who ignore her advice on dietary matters and persist in eating and drinking the things they actually like.

Peeved, did I say? Dammit, her patience is exhausted!

She is sick and tired, the says, of being nice and reasonable with such recalcitrants and she may have to consider some form of compulsion to wean them off beer, baccy, and fatty foods.

It is strange that the media should faithfully report these inanities, almost without comment, when any Labour minister who uttered such crackpot sentiments would be crucified and cited as an example of Socialist totalitarianism.

Even stranger is why Madam Thatcher keeps her in the Government at all. Can it be that her nuttiness makes Thatcher's own burgeoning megalomania seem almost sane by comparison?

Just what form of compulsion Mrs Currie has in mind is not clear. Are we, perhaps, to see a yoghurt-and-muesli-crazed Gestapo, dressed in jackboots and woolly hats, standing outside every fish and chip shop and hamburger joint and taking the names of everyone who has the temerity to enter? Are persistent offenders to be electronicly tagged and their cholesterol levels monitored so that any deviation may be beamed back to their probation officers?

Perhaps not. It is reported that what Mrs Currie has in mind, if anything, is that people who wilfully ruin their health by ignoring her advice may in future be made to pay for their own medical treatment.

Clearly such a scheme would have great merit. With most of the population barred from treatment and the yoghurt and muesli brigade dying young from malnutrition, there would no longer be any need for that expensive National Health Service. Then that nice Mr Lawson could give some really juicy tax hand-outs to Tory fat cats, all of whom, by the look of them, exist on a continual diet of cigars, booze, and fatty food but have a life membership of BUPA as part of their extensive executive perks.

Yes, very fair. As a beer, baccy, and fatty food addict I will willingly pay for my own medicine - provided that maniacal publicity-hounds are made to pay for their own mental treatment.

NUREMBERG BY SEA

THE ANNUAL series of seaside freak shows concluded, as usual, with the Tory Party Conference which was held in a seaside bunker at Brighton. The bunker was protected, on its flanks, by Fort Grand and Fort Metropole.

Warships patrolled offshore to fight off an attack by the IRA navy. Aircraft were barred from the surrounding area to foil the IRA Air Force. Concrete blocks littered the promenade after rumours of an impending assault by the IRA Armoured Corp. Altogether quite a triumph for the IRA.

However, everyone congratulated Madam Thatcher on her courage in defying the IRA by coming back to Brighton, a notorious stretch of bandit country. In fact Madam Thatcher was congratulated for just about everything by the massed ranks of Tory toadies who, with their new-born air of invincibility and ritual standing ovations, made the Conference seem like a somewhat seedy Nuremberg Rally.

Apart from the Great Lady herself, the star of the show was undoubtedly her toady-in-chief, one Cecil Parkinson, the Minister for Energy, otherwise known to his colleagues as the Fast-Breeder Reactionary.

Billed as the rising star of the Tory Party and a future Prime Minister, he has the slightly dazed expression of someone suffering from tinnitus or ringing in the ears - possibly the sound of cash registers. For he is the ace privatiser and arch looter of the public sector. Despite an outstandingly lack-lustre speech, he contrived to rouse his fellow Tory looters to a frenzied standing ovation with an impassioned declaration that, by hook or by crook, (probably the latter) he was going to privatise the coal industry. By golly, there's nothing like the prospect of bashing the working man and making a fast buck on the side to have 'em dancing in the aisles. However, any hopes they might cherish of some foreign investor making a multi-million pound bid for Arthur Scargill are, I fear, just an impossible dream.

No part of the public sector, they boast, is safe from the threat of privatisation. But wait. The Armed Services are part of the public sector. Just think of the billions of pounds of public money that has been ploughed into the Army, Navy, and Air Force over the years and they have never once made a profit. But then again, I suppose, they'll all be needed to defend the next Tory Conference.

NF MEMBERS CLASSED AS BLACKS?

ARE ASIANS Black? That's the question taxing the mighty minds of the Race Board these days, as they try to advise the Office of Population, Censuses and Surveys about the ethnic origin question to appear on the 1991 Census.

The OPCS thought not. But then they decided to ask the Commission for Racial Equality.

They said Asians were a 'sub-category of Blacks'. Then the Asian community complained that calling them Black was 'insulting'.

So the CRE set up an internal inquiry into this vital question. It is now expected to report that Asians aren't Black. But then the Blacks complained. After all if Asians are counted as Blacks, then they would make up a bigger percentage of the population and can demand bigger hand-outs.

Some radical Asian groups then demanded to be Black. Unlike most Asians, who despise Blacks (after all, in India, the darker you are the lower your caste), they are proud to be 'one in struggle'. They want Black to be "a political term to cover the disadvantaged".

So poor whites would be classified as Black as well. This would mean that a substantial proportion of NF members and voters would officially become Black. And so it goes on. Meanwhile the cosmetic shops in Brixton and Handsworth are doing a roaring trade in the creams and soaps alleged to turn Black White . . .

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

Arts chief quits at crisis-hit centre

THE crisis surrounding the proposed black arts centre for the Roundhouse deepened on Tuesday when its arts co-ordinator offered his resignation.

Sources close to the project believe the move will signal the scrapping of the scheme altogether.

The move by the co-ordinator Remi Kapo, comes after three weeks of mounting pressure on him to explain why the project has stagnated over the past two years and the activity of his production company, Akintunde.

Camden's representative on the board, Councillor Richard Sumray, said: "No decision on the future of the building or Mr Kapo will be taken until the next board meeting on October 3."

But the Arts Council, who also funded the project, have called a series of meetings of all the project's backers over the next two weeks to look into the affair and say this will probably lead to a full scale inquiry.

Wasting Our Money

ENCLOSED is yet another chapter in the on-going "Black Arts" saga!

A couple of years ago Remi Kapo made an impassioned appeal in The Stage newspaper for, would you believe, an extra £1 million in order to (quote) "combat fascism and racism in the arts!"

The self-styled 'co-ordinator' had earlier received a vast amount of money from Camden Council who, at that time, were eagerly funding all manner of hair-brained projects, especially those conjured up by our disgruntled ethnic newcomers.

Mr Kapo's grandiose plan for a luxurious 'Black Arts Centre' has indeed stagnated and the Roundhouse stands derelict. It remains to be seen whether Labour-controlled Camden Council will require the ambitious entrepeneur to furnish an itemised account of past expenditure?

It is nothing short of scandalous that this man has been allowed to squander nearly £3 million of the tax-payers money!

It's So Easy at McDonalds!

IN September's issue of The FLAG there is an article condemning McDonalds the American hamburger chain.

It's all very well saying we should boycott these places for ideological reasons but for practical reasons doing so would pose problems.

I have two young sons, one only sixteen months, and McDonalds is the only place where I can get a meal, sit down with the children, and have a high chair for the baby. I have tried numerous other cafes but they just don't have the facility for children. High chairs are unheard of in many of these places so I go to McDonalds because of convenience.

It's such a hassle buying British!

I HAVE always tried to buy British when shopping. It gets harder and harder as the years go by.

But even when you can buy British so many unnecessary obstacles are put in your way. Take shoes for instance. The shops in Swindon are full of shoes from Italy, Poland, Hungary and Rumania, there is only one shop that stocks totally British shoes. But where does this shop have its children's department? - on the second floor! These's no lift so I don't know how they expect young mothers to get their prams up the stairs.

So even when you can find a British pair of shoes to buy them is a real hassle.

Only Men have such little Knowledge

THE men who pontificate in The FLAG telling women what to do infuriates me.

It must be men because only they would have such little knowledge of the running of the home.

You tell housewives to buy Ozone-friendly aerosols to protect the environment adding the throw-away remark that they just cost 33% more.

I bought an 'Ozone Friendly' areosol and it cost me £1.09 my usual one costs 60p. The people who write The FLAG are probably not aware that Child Allowance has been frozen yet again and many housewives have to make that £29.00 per month stretch as part of the housekeeping.

I accept that we must protect the environment but there are better ways of doing it, roll-on deodorants for example and 'airwick' sticks rather than aerosols.

What They Would Really Be Like

Media Watch

IN THIS month's FLAG we give real-life characters to the players in BBC's soap EastEnders!.

'Honest Doc' Legge. Local bookie, good-humoured and always buys rounds at the Old Vic. He can afford to with the money he regularly fleeces from the residents of Albert Square.

Carmel: Black Power fanatic elected to local office by pretending to be Labour. "The British are fascist and racist" she told a local Black sections meeting, "They walk 'around as though they own the place!".

Manny Bloom. Moneylender. Always to be found wandering the square with his little black book. "Ah Ethel, you owe me £20;.let me lend you another £20 so you can pay me back the orginal £20 and then you'll only owe me £30. See how I look after you.".

Matthew. Poor Matthew is blind. He thinks Carmel is a blonde bombshell and no ones wants to break the bad news to him. Although he did confide to Wicksey that her hair felt funny, he suffocated when she kissed him and he thought it was a bit odd that she called him 'honey-child'.

Colin. Public lavatory attendant in Albert Square. He keeps those urinals spotless and is always offering a helping hand to his customers. Regularly beaten up for pestering youngsters in the market and barred from the Old Vic after someone told Frank you could catch AIDS from saliva left on glasses.

Arthur. He's been acting very strange. Ever since he was sacked from his job in the Asian-run corner shop. He's out three evenings a week and Pauline's worried. She told Kathy *"He said he's doing something to make Britain a better place. Dot saw him around the square the other evening putting out leaflets saying Britain for the British. An Organisation Helping Britain's Environment

MEMBERS OF the National Front who have an interest in our natural heritage and traditional rural crafts may be interested in joining two organisations that do a great deal of work in this area.

The Woodland Trust

This was formed in the early seventies and now boasts over 60,000 members. It specialises in raising money to buy and look after woods that might otherwise be destroyed, and currently running a campaign Save a Wood a Week designed to protect woods from the onslaught of bricks and intensive farming. It also plants land with native broad leaved trees thus securing the future of much of our wildlife which is dependent in many ways on native trees. An Oak wood can provide homes for 4,000 species of birds, animals, insects and plants, only a few can live in the Sitka Spruce plantations that are mostly planted nowadays - destroying not only native wildlife but much of our best scenery.

All its woods are open to the public and many are run on a community basis. This is where local people are encouraged to help in the management of the wood itself. From research into its history through to traditional woodland techniques such as coppicing, and surveys of its wildlife. This will give people an interest to preserve the woods for all times instead of treating them as a rubbish tip.

Trees and especially woods are a vital part of our national heritage and the woodland trust deserves our support.

METAL JUSTICE

METALLICA are without doubt the leading light of the group of new American Heavy Metal bands that have come into prominence in the last five years.

Their concert on the 10th October at Hammersmith Odeon was the culmination of their British and European Tour and showed impressively why they are the top of the Trash Metal league.

Not only are Metallica a powerful band of musical craftsmen, they are also writers of songs with intelligent and relevant lyrics. Backed by a dimly lit set which initially looked like a scene from the film The Good the Bad and the Ugly, the band roared into action with the song Blackened from their latest album '. . . And Justice For All' about the poisoning of the Earth's natural eco-system. "See your mother put to death, watch your mother die".

The song And Justice for All, played to the backdrop of a collapsing Statue of Liberty, deals with the climate of the current British and American society where money buys everything and the idea of natural justice for individual men and women is quickly lost.

The unfaltering vocals and guitar of James Hetfield and the playing of Kirk Hammett, bassist Jason Newstead, backed by the thunderous drums of Lars Ulrich, kept the audience enthralled.

A wide selection of old numbers were included in the band's set The Four Horsemen, Seek and Destroy and For Whom the Bell Tolls as well as new numbers such as Eye of the Beholder and Harvester of Sorrow.

When we left at 10.30 for a local hostelry, James and the boys were still going strong. Truly they are masters of their art.

Black Peter Brainwashes British Children

THE CHILDREN'S magazine programme Blue Peter was thirty years old in October. For most of those three decades, under the able editorship of Biddy Baxter, the programme provided British children with an island of healthy, wholesome viewing in a rising sea of degenerate, multiracialist Americanised TV brain-rot.

Alas, in July Miss Baxter was replaced by one Lewis Bronze.

Mr Bronze was not long in stamping a somewhat different identity on the programme when its new season began in September.

Blue Peter since then has sunk into a morass of multiracialism. British children have been treated to the spectacle of a 12-year-old Negroid impersonating Michael Jackson, presenters Caron Keating and Yvette Fielding dressed up in saris, and bits of propaganda about Britain being "home to many different races and cultures".

On October 24th, proceedings were brought to a close by the "Reggae Philharmonic Orchestra" mangling the Blue Peter theme tune. A Black or Asian presenter can now only be a matter of time.

Although We Hate His Politics . . .

CLOUGH IS THE MAN FOR ENGLAND

JUST WHEN is Bobby Robson going to learn that John Barnes is a useless Prima Donna. He showed himself to be out of his class in the European Championships: sparkling runs to nowhere, an inability to pass the ball to anyone and a determination to be tackled successfully as often as possible.

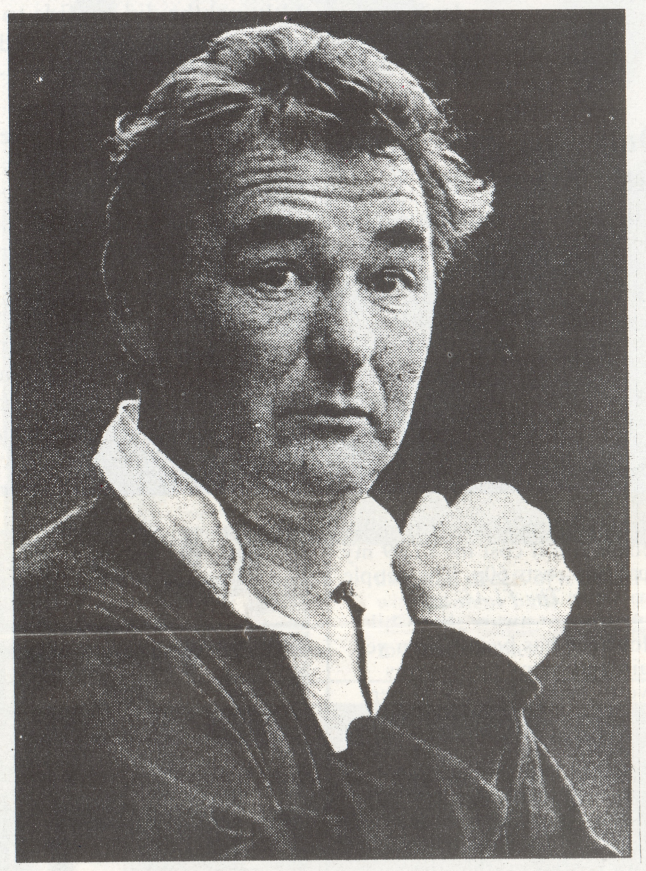
So why does Bobby Robson keep him on? Answers on a postcard please. There are other areas where the England team needs looking at: Should Adams really be included, does the defence need a wholesale change? But above all else it is clear that Bobby Robson simply does not fill the bill as England manager. After the disaster of the European Championships he gave an interview where he attitude could be summed up as "Oh well, you win some, you lose some".

After the recent 0:0 draw at home to Sweden his comments were absurd: "We made most of the running", 'We played quite impressively", "It was a match Sweden could have lost". You can almost imagine the pre-match pep-talk he must have given to the team:-

"Well lads, off you go, you might win, you might lose, don't worry, there will always be another match, try not to tire yourselves out and who knows the ball might just end up in the back of the Swedish goal, somehow, perhaps . . . ."

It is time for Robson to go. We need a manager with a bit of fire in his belly, a manager who inspires his team, a manager who gets angry if England loses. We have to say that much as we dislike his politics someone like Brian Clough would be infinitely better than the insipid Robson.

Why not tell us who you would like to see as England manager and what changes you would like to make to the England team.



• CLOUGH: A bit of fire in his belly.

BLOODY DISGRACE: Scenes of violence at Plough Lane. How can we expect young supporters to behave themselves when they see such an example from their heroes. Players who attack other players after the game is over should be banned for life.

ON 27th September a group called Freedom in Sport International was formed in order to provide support to sportsmen and women wishing to ply their trade in South Africa. The organisation had Lord Chalfont as its president and is supported by John Carlisle MP.

CRAVEN & SENILE

SOUTH AFRICAN rugby and British rugby have one thing in common. Senile administrators who are out of touch.

The president of the South African Rugby Board Danie Craven is 78 years-old and has recently had heart surgery. Hardly qualifications for the job. Moreover he has now been to see the terrorists of the ANC to discuss rugby with them.

South African rugby is particularly strong in the Transvaal which recently elected large numbers of Conservative Party pro-apartheid councils - which shows just shows how out of touch Mr Craven has become.

We predict a very short remainder of his presidency!

POOR CLUBS FEEL THE PINCH

OUT OF 119 football league clubs covered in a recent survey 95 owe more money that the value of their assets. Particularly badly hit are the clubs in the lower divisions especially now that 75% of the money from television goes to First Division clubs.

But even some of these are hitting problems and the lack of European competition has been a bitter blow to overall attendances. All this comes from a recent report by 'ICC Business Ratios'.

One interesting part of the report is that in terms of income both Chelsea and West Ham continue to figure in the top ten - which is perhaps an unusual comment on the effect of alleged hooliganism on crowd attendances.

This report shows the danger into which British football is falling. With the increasing financial plight of many clubs, the property speculators are rubbing their hands in anticipation.

The only way of preventing these vultures from destroying our national game is by letting the fans take over the clubs and run them as sporting ventures instead of selling them to Tesco, ASDA, Sainsbury's, etc.

OVER THE STICKS

WE ARE well into the jumping season now and with the new TV screens in many areas the non-tryers can be easily spotted as well as horses that are coming into form.

PALE STAR

from the stable of J.Davies, he ran around Plumpton on Monday 7th November without getting out of breath. He finished a 30 length fourth but if pushed could have reached a place. There's a two and a half mile hurdle waiting for him, possible a seller, so keep your eyes open.

FIRTH OF FORTH

from Oliver Sherwood's yard had a delightful introduction at Devon and Exeter on Tuesday 8th November he literally cantered around to finish a distance 4th but will know more about the game next time. This beautifully bred jumper looks sure to win soon.

The Great Heavyweight Debate . . .

IT MUST BE MARCIANO

by Bob Nash

THERE IS much talk in the boxing world as to who has proved to be the greatest Heavyweight Champion. From the multi-racialist point of view, obvious candidates for the title would include black boxers such as Joe Louis, Cassius Clay and of course Mike Tyson.

To my mind however, one figure stands out above all other athletes in the history of Heavyweight boxing, and that man is Rocky Marciano.

Born Rocco Francis Marchegiano in Brockton, Massachussets, 'The Brockton Blockbuster' had his first professional bout at the age of 24 and was nearly 30 when his manager lined up his world title bout.

Evidence of Marciano's power was seen when he ko'd Jersey Joe Walcott with a crushing right in the 13th round of their contest in September 1952 to become the new Heavyweight Champion.

After five subsequent defences of the title, Rocky Marciano announced his retirement in April 1956, leaving an unequalled record of 49 straight wins.

• Marciano lays that famous right hook on Jersey Joe Walcott.

Marciano's claim to the title of greatest Heavyweight champion is further strengthened by the fact that compared physically to other notable Heavyweights, he was quite small. Whilst boxers such as Joe Louis, Cassius Clay and Larry Holmes were all over 6ft in height, Marciano was only 5ft 10 inches.

Similarly, 'the Rocks' fighting weight of 184 lbs (13 stone 2 lbs) would be considered too light compared to today's Heavyweights who usually weigh in at around 15 to 16 stone.

On the basis of these statistics it would be true to say that Rocky Marciano earned for himself a unique place in boxing history. With current Heavyweight champion Mike Tyson's career beset by personal problems outside the ring, Marciano's unbeaten record seems likely to remain unchallenged for quite some time to come. A final point that separates Rocky Marciano from other great Heavyweights is that unlike Louis, Cassius Clay or Larry Holmes; he knew when to retire.

The Reward For Representing Her Country!

KATHY Read, the 19-year-old British Olympic swimmer, returned from Seoul to find that her country had rewarded her by docking her dole money. Kathy, who set a new English 100-metres backstroke record during the Games, was told by officials that her £26 a week supplementary benefit had been stopped for the two weeks she was swimming for Britain in Korea.

While representing our country the swimming star was, it seems, "unavailable for work". She also came home to find her Norwich flat had been burgled.

Kathy rightly observed: "It's heartbreaking to see how athletes are treated in this country".
